

Log canonical foliation singularities on surfaces

Yen-An Chen

Mathematics

National Center for Theoretical Sciences

Abstract

Singularities play an important role in studying birational geometry as well as the foliations. In this talk, we will show the classification of log canonical foliation singularities on surfaces. As an application, the set of minimal log discrepancies on foliated surfaces satisfies the ascending chain condition.